- ▶ Snelling's Manufacturing & Distribution Services can help your company minimize production costs and maximize productivity. Success in accomplishing this comes from having the right people doing the right job. That's why companies from the Fortune 500 to small start-ups have relied on Snelling's Manufacturing and Distribution Services for their staffing needs for over 50 years.

Snelling is a national recruitment and placement firm that provides staffing services and support for manufacturers and distributors seeking temporary, permanent and contract employees. Whether you're staffing up for a peak production period or seeking an experienced executive to drive results for years to come, Snelling can help your company grow and prosper.

Snelling delivers results by matching the right people with the right job. To ensure the right fit, Snelling utilizes a methodology called Priority-Driven Results, which is a consultative, results-oriented approach to recruiting. Workers matched through this approach require less training, become more productive team members faster, and stay with the job longer, keeping valuable knowledge and experience in-house. This can significantly reduce staffing costs – recruiting, interviewing, training, productivity – which can equal up to 100% of the position's annual salary.

With offices and staffing experts around the country, Snelling can find temporary and permanent employees on a local, regional or national basis, depending on your needs. You expect results from your team. Expect the same from your staffing company. Snelling delivers results.

Choose wisely. Choose Snelling.
